Some Random Landscape Thoughts

A new year is the time for us to make resolutions to better ourselves. It is also a good time to make some resolutions to better our home. Here are a few of our suggestions to building a better landscape.

Resolution #1 - I Will Define My Ideal Landscape

Figure out what personality you want your yard to embody and implement those ideas, turning your dream landscape into a reality.

Resolution #2 - I Will Fully Enjoy My Yard

Take time from your busy schedule to relax and enjoy your landscape this year. Feelings of happiness will increase when you spend more time outdoors.

Resolution #3 - I Will Take Better Care of My Lawn

Staying on top of the weeds growing in your lawn will benefit you and your landscape for years to come. Creating a compost pile will reduce the need for fertilizer in gardens and save on water. Keeping your outdoor living space organized will make it feel more comfortable and inviting.

Resolution #4 - I Will Ask for Help When I Need It

Landscape professionals are here to help you save time on lawn care maintenance, plant selection, and design layout. Don't be afraid to ask an expert for some advice and increase your confidence in your yard.

Prune Trees and Shrubs

When deciduous shrubs and trees are dormant in the winter, it is the best time to prune them.

Landscape Trends you Can't Ignore in 2019

Landscape Trend #1: Two-in-one landscape design

Functional elements are no longer a perk, but rather a necessity in today's landscapes. Consumers desire stunning outdoor features that have been cleverly designed to serve a dual tactical purpose. An edible vertical garden on a trellis that acts as a privacy fence, a retaining wall that includes built-in seating for entertaining, and colorful garden beds that divide properties all combine function and style.

Landscape Trend #2: Automated lawn and landscape maintenance

The latest technology and equipment allow tasks to be more streamlined and environmentally efficient than ever before. Robotic lawn mowers continue to rise in popularity among both homeowners and landscape professionals. Also, programmable irrigation systems and advanced lighting and electrical systems help outdoor spaces become extensions of today's smart homes. Homeowners relish knowing that these technological advancements give them more time to relax and enjoy their outdoor spaces.

Landscape Trend #3: Pergolas

A staple of landscape design for years, pergolas constructed of wood or composite material are now becoming more sophisticated. In fact, today they come with major upgrades, including roll-down windows, space heaters, lighting and sound systems. When paired with a luxury kitchen, seating area or fire feature, pergolas can become the iconic structure for outdoor sanctuaries.

Landscape Trend #4: Pretty in Pink

Pops of coral and blush are anticipated to add a more feminine touch to landscapes this year. With Living Coral named the Color of the Year by Pantone, a leading provider of color systems and an influencer on interior and exterior design, landscape professionals predict that this rich shade of pink could bring fresh blooms of roses, petunias, zinnias and hibiscus to flower beds. Experts also anticipate light blush tones to become "the new neutral" and another option for hardscapes and stone selections.

Landscape Trend #5: Mesmerizing Metals

Whether homeowners want a bold statement or whimsical touch, incorporating metals can bring new dimensions to landscape design. Used for decorative art, water features or furniture and accessories, creative uses of metals including steel and iron can make for lovely accents or entire focal points.
